

The Gelug/Kagyü Tradition of Mahamudra

by

H.H. the Dalai Lama

and

Alexander Berzin

Snow Lion Publications
Ithaca, New York

Table of Contents

Preface	13
PART I. AN INTRODUCTION TO MAHAMUDRA AND ITS PRACTICAL APPLICATION TO LIFE, Alexander Berzin
CHAPTER ONE: THE BUDDHIST FRAMEWORK
Overview of the Topic	19
The Four True Facts in Life	22
Taking Ourselves and Our Life Seriously	25
Safe Direction and Buddha-nature	27
Behavioral Cause and Effect	29
Renunciation	30
Eliminating Confusion	32
Compassion and a Dedicated Heart of Bodhichitta	33
CHAPTER TWO: THE PRELIMINARY PRACTICES
Recognizing Our Mental Blocks	35
Prostration	37
Vajrasattva Practice	37
Guru-yoga	38
The Relationship with a Spiritual Teacher	42
The Inseparability of Our Mind and Our Guru	45
Guru-mantras	46
Investigating the Meaning of Every Teaching	47

CHAPTER THREE: PREVENTING PRELIMINARY PRACTICES FROM BECOMING FLAT
Why Preliminaries Lose Meaning	49
Being Creative with Preliminary Practices	50
Transforming All Activities into a Spiritual Path	51
Building up Two Bountiful Stores	52
Fitting Together the Dharma Teachings	53
Avoiding Becoming Infatuated with the Teachings	55
CHAPTER FOUR: THE INITIAL LEVEL OF MAHAMUDRA MEDITATION
The Definition of Mind	59
The Non-duality of Subject and Object	61
Clarity — the Arising of the Contents of an Experience	61
Awareness — an Engaging with the Contents of an Experience	63
Merely	64
Summary of the Buddhist Definition of Mind	64
The Nature of Mahamudra Meditation	65
The Analogy of a Flashlight	66
The Initial Stages of Mahamudra Meditation	67
Benefits of the Initial Stage of Practice	69
CHAPTER FIVE: THE DEEPER LEVELS OF MAHAMUDRA MEDITATION
Mahamudra Meditation on the Conventional Nature of Mind	71
The Necessity for Meditating on the Conventional and Deepest Natures of “Me”	73
The Conventional and Deepest Natures of “Me”	74
Applying the Understanding of the Nature of “Me” to Mahamudra Meditation	76
The Relation Between the Conventional and Deepest Natures of Mind	77
Mahamudra Meditation on the Deepest Nature of Mind	78
Understanding That the Conventional “Me” Exists Like an Illusion	79
Understanding the Nature of Mind in Terms of Mental Labeling	79
Understanding the Deepest Nature of Mind To Be Like Space and Its Conventional Nature To Be Like Illusion	80

Further Applications of the Understanding of Voidness to Mahamudra Meditation	81
Non-conceptual Meditation	83
The Relation Between Ideas, Understanding and Conceptual Meditation	84
The Stages for Gaining a Non-conceptual Mahamudra Meditation	85
The Anuttarayoga Tantra Level of Mahamudra Meditation	89
Summary	89

PART II. THE ROOT TEXT BY THE FIRST PANCHEN LAMA

A ROOT TEXT FOR THE PRECIOUS GELUG/KAGYÜ TRADITION OF MAHAMUDRA: The Main Road of the Triumphant Ones	97
--	----

PART III. DISCOURSE BY H.H. THE DALAI LAMA ON THE ROOT TEXT

CHAPTER ONE: INTRODUCTION AND PRELIMINARIES

Introductory Remarks	105
Opening Homage, Praise and Promise to Compose	107
The Common Preliminaries	109
The Uncommon Preliminaries	111

CHAPTER TWO: THE TANTRA AND SUTRA TRADITIONS OF MAHAMUDRA

The Tantra Tradition of Mahamudra	113
The Sutra Tradition of Mahamudra	115

CHAPTER THREE: MAHAMUDRA WITHIN THE CONTEXT OF VARIOUS BUDDHIST TRADITIONS

The Different Lineages of Mahamudra	119
The Harmony of the Two Correct Views of Reality	123
Confirmation from the Dzogchen System	125
Corroboration from the Chittamatra Practice of Tantra	127

CHAPTER FOUR: MEDITATION ON THE CONVENTIONAL NATURE OF MIND

Preliminaries for Shamata Meditation	130
Focusing on the Conventional Nature of Mind	132
Employing Mindfulness and Alertness	134
Techniques to Employ When Mind Gives Rise to a Thought	137

The Attainment of Shamata Focused on the Conventional Nature of Mind	140
CHAPTER FIVE: MEDITATION ON THE DEEPEST NATURE OF THE CONVENTIONAL “ME” AND ALL PHENOMENA, INCLUDING MIND
Promise to Compose	143
Scrutinizing the Manner of Appearance and Manner of Existence of “Me”	143
Refutation of the “Me” To Be Refuted	145
The Conventional Existence of Phenomena That Is Not To Be Refuted	147
Total Absorption on Voidness Which Is Like Space	149
Voidness of Mind Itself	152
Understanding Voidness in Terms of Dependent Arising	153
Dedication	156
CHAPTER SIX: THE DEEP AWARENESS SUBSEQUENTLY ATTAINED
Recognizing Anything to Which Mind Gives Rise	157
Applying Our Understanding to All Phenomena	159
Alternating Total Absorption and Subsequently Attained Deep Awareness	160
Simultaneous Perception of the Two Levels of Truth	162
Closing Dedication and Colophon	163
Concluding Advice	165
PART IV. DISCOURSE BY H.H. THE DALAI LAMA ON THE AUTO-COMMENTARY
SESSION ONE
The Source of the Teachings	169
Special Features of the Teachings	171
Setting the Appropriate Motivation	172
Homage and Praise to the Gurus	172
Promise to Compose and General Presentation of the Preliminaries	175
Safe Direction and the Four True Facts in Life	176
The Wish for Happiness	178
Bodhichitta	181
Mandala Offering	181
Vajrasattva Practice	182

Guru-yoga	183
The Qualifications of a Guru	183
Practice Before Finding a Guru	186
SESSION TWO
Taming the Mind	187
Visualization of the Sources of Safe Direction	190
The Four Levels of Mandala Offering	192
All Appearance-making and Appearances as Reflexive Play	195
The Relation Between Appearances, Clear Light Mind, Death and Rebirth	197
The Relation Between Mind, Karma and Environment	200
The Two Levels of Vajrasattva Practice	203
Guru-yoga — External and Inner Gurus	203
Parting from the Four Forms of Clinging — the Common Preliminaries	204
The Importance of Preliminaries	205
Paying Attention to Definitions of Technical Terms	207
Confident Belief in the Guru	208
Premature Commitment to an Unsuitable Guru	209
Premature Commitment to Tantra and Daily Recitation Practices	210
Visualization of Ourselves as a Buddha-form	211
Establishing the Dignity of Being a Form of Buddha	214
Six-session Guru-yoga	215
SESSION THREE
Different Presentations of the Four Types of Seals	216
Penetrating Vital Points of the Vajra-body	218
Those Who Progress Through Graded Stages and Those for Whom Everything Happens at Once	220
Dzogchen in Comparison to Mahamudra	223
The Coarse and Subtle Primordial Minds	226
The Dzogchen Tradition in Bön	227
Summary of the Anuttarayoga Tantra Tradition of Mahamudra	229
The Appropriateness of this System of Mahamudra Being Called “Gelug/Kagyü”	230
Other-voidness and Self-voidness	234

SESSION FOUR

The Authenticity of the Traditions of the Dohas and Dzogchen	240
Division Schemes of Maha-, Anu- and Atiyoga, and Father, Mother and Non-dual Tantra	242
Unconventional Behavior of the Most Highly Realized Practitioners	244
Compassion and Wisdom Within the Context of Anuttarayoga Tantra	249
How Chittamatra Practitioners of Tantra Gain a Madhyamaka View	250
All Phenomena as the Play of Primordial Clear Light Mind	252
Primordial Clear Light Mind as Buddha-nature	253
Relying on a Sealing Partner	254
Summary of the Tantra Level of Mahamudra Practice	255
The Differences Between the Sutra and Tantra Levels of Mahamudra	256

SESSION FIVE

The Way to Listen to Teachings	259
Non-sectarianism	260
Brief Résumé of the Text	261
The Simultaneously Arising as Merged Tradition of Karma Kagyü	263
The Amulet Box Tradition of Shangpa Kagyü	264
The Possessing Five Tradition of Drigung Kagyü	267
The Drugpa Kagyü Tradition of the Six Spheres of Equal Taste	269
The Four Syllables Tradition Common to All Dagpo Kagyü Lineages	270
The Pacifier Tradition of Pa Dampa-sanggyay	270
The Object to Be Cut Off, Dzogchen and Madhyamaka Discursive View Traditions	271

SESSION SIX

The Basic Prerequisites for Achieving Shamata	272
Cleaning the Place of Practice, Preparing the Seat and Assuming the Proper Posture	274
Generating an Initial Neutral State of Mind with the Nine Tastes of Breath	275

Generating a Constructive State of Mind	276
Focusing on Mind Itself	277
Recognizing Mere Clarity and Awareness	279
Focusing with Mindfulness and Alertness	280
Degrees and Varieties of Distraction and Dullness	281
How to Cultivate Alertness and Absorbed Concentration	282
Reducing Conceptual Thoughts	283
Loosening the Tightness of Mindfulness	285
Seeing that the Settled and Moving Minds Are Mixed Together	286
Recognizing the Nature of Conceptual Thought	287
Six Techniques for Achieving Shamata	288
Bringing Our Meditation from Absorbed Concentration to a State of Shamata	289
SESSION SEVEN
Working to Benefit Others	291
A Life of Intensive Meditational Practice Versus a Life of Service	292
Providing Ourselves with Strength to Maintain a Life of Service to Others	294
Broad Guidelines for Meditation	295
Stages of Focusing Mind on Mind	297
Boon Experiences	298
The Importance of Realizing the Devoid Nature of Mind	299
Five Traditions for Cutting Down to the Deepest Nature of Mind	300
SESSION EIGHT
Removing the Obstacles Preventing Liberation and Enlightenment	304
General Discussion of Identitylessness	306
Avoiding the Two Extremes in Recognizing the Object To Be Refuted	307
The Three Ways of Apprehending "Me"	309
The Simultaneously Arising, Incorrect View of a Transitory Collection That Apprehends Everything in Terms of "Me"	310
Scrutinizing the Manner of Appearance and Manner of Existence of "Me"	312

SESSION NINE

Approaching the Challenge of Taming the Mind	314
Searching for the “Me” To Be Refuted	315
Recognizing the Mode of Appearance-making To Be Refuted	318
Differentiating the Mode of Appearance-making of Conventional Reality from the Mode of Appearance- making To Be Refuted	319
The Analogy of Dreams and Illusions	321
Refutation of the “Me” To Be Refuted	323
Total Absorption on Voidness Which Is Like Space	325
Subsequently Attained Deep Awareness That Everything Is Like Illusion	325

SESSION TEN

Realizing the Voidness of Mind Itself	327
Corroboration of the Voidness of Mind by Great Meditational Masters	329
Re-affirming Conviction in Voidness by Merely Seeing the Appearances to Which Mind Dependently Gives Rise	330
Further Cultivation of Subsequently Attained Deep Awareness	333
The Extinction of Discordant Appearance-making	334
Re-affirmation of the Conventional Level of Truth	334
Conventional Existence by Virtue Simply of Names	336
Refutation of the Svatantrika-Madhyamaka Position	337
The Prasangika-Madhyamaka Position	339
Dependent Arising — “The King of Lines of Reasoning”	340
Supplementing the Understanding of Dzogchen with Tsongkapa’s Presentation of Voidness and Vice Versa	341
Valid Cognition of the Conventional Level of Truth	342
Applying the Understanding of Voidness to Every Appearance to Which Mind Gives Rise	342
Voidness and Dependently Arising Appearance Being Synonymous	343
The Stages to Enlightenment Through Mahamudra	345
Dedication and Concluding Advice	347

Tibetan Text: A Root Text for the Precious Gelug/Kagyü Tradition of Mahamudra	351
--	-----

Glossary	357
Index of Text Titles	377
Index	383